MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

1. DEFENDANT HAS MADE THE REQUIRED MANIFEST SHOWING.

3 Plaintiffs Hollyway Cleaners & Laundry Company, Inc., Milton Chortkoff, 4 Burton Chortkoff, Edythe Chortkoff, and Wilma Chortkoff's ("Plaintiffs") argue that 5 the Court's order reflects that it already specifically addressed and considered defendant 6 Central National Insurance Company of Omaha, Inc.'s ("Defendant"). However, the 7 Court's finding that "CNI failed to raise any... 'fraud' -based defenses in its Answer" 8 belies this argument. Fraud is universally considered an intentional misconduct yet the 9 Court made no reference or specific mention of any of Defendant's affirmative defense 10 relating to intentional misconduct by Plaintiffs, including, but not limited to, the very 11 relevant affirmative defense of "intentional conduct." Had the Court given full 12 consideration to all of Defendant's affirmative defenses, at a minimum it would be 13 expected that there would be specific mention of at least this affirmative defense and the 14 basis for its inadequacy despite its seeming applicability. No such specific mention 15 appearing in the Court's order, the requisite showing has been made by Defendant.

2. THE ANSWER IS GOVERNED BY STATE LAW, NOT FEDERAL LAW.

17 Plaintiffs' opposition to the Motion for Reconsideration of Summary Judgment
18 order (the "Motion") attacks the sufficiency of Defendant's Answer under federal law.
19 However, if in fact the Court deemed the answer insufficient pursuant to these or similar 20 arguments, this would simply reinforce Defendant's position that there was a manifest 21 failure to consider material facts presented to the Court – i.e. that the Answer, and the 22 general denials and affirmative defenses therein, were not given due consideration.
23 That is, in addition to a failure to consider the efficacy of the Answer on its own, the 24 Answer was further not given due consideration in that it was not properly analyzed as 25 having been filed in state court prior to the removal of this matter to federal court.

26 As the Court is aware, this matter was originally filed on September 23, 2013 in 27 state court in the County of Santa Barbara, with Defendant's Answer filed on October 4, 28 2013, also in state court. Thereafter, this matter was removed to federal court on or

1 about October 9, 2013. The consequence of this sequence of events is that the 2 sufficiency and effect of Defendant's answer must be judged under state law, and not 3 under federal law as Plaintiffs argue and as it now appears the Court may have done.

4 This is because the Federal Rules of Procedure apply only after removal, such 5 that they do not provide for retroactive application to the procedural aspects of a case
6 that occurred in state court before removal. Taylor v. Bailey Tool & Mfg. Co., 744 F.3d
7 944, 946 (5th Cir. 2014). Accordingly, the federal rules do not apply to filings in state 8 court, even if the case is later removed to federal court, noting that the cases specifically 9 instruct that the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure "do not apply to the filing of pleadings 10 or motions prior to removal." Kirby v. Alleghany Beverage Corp., 811 F.2d 253, 257 11 (4th Cir. 1987). Thus, virtually all of Plaintiffs' opposition is rendered moot, as their 12 reference to federal law requirements is inapplicable to the circumstances of this case.

13 In short, an answer that fully complies with state law is not suddenly rendered 14 invalid or insufficient after removal to federal court. For example, state law permits a 15 general denial, see e.g. California Code of Civil Procedure section 431.30(b), whereas 16 federal law generally requires more specific denials, see e.g. F.R.C.P. 8. However, a 17 state answer that asserts a general denial, as in this case, does not automatically become 18 insufficiently pleaded simply by virtue of being removed to federal court. Similarly, the 19 adequacy of Defendant's affirmative defenses and the effect of its general denial in this 20 matter must be judged under state law, not federal law.

21 3. THE ANSWER IS SUFFICIENT UNDER STATE LAW.

22 In this case, Defendant submitted a general denial to the entirety of Plaintiffs'
23 original state court complaint. Under California law, this is effective to controvert all
24 material allegations of an unverified complaint. California Code of Civil Procedure
25 section 431.30(d). "Under a general denial, the defendant may urge any defense tending 26 to show that plaintiff has no right to recover or no right to recover to the extent that he 27 or she claims." Advantec Group, Inc. v. Edwin's Plumbing Co., Inc., 153 Cal.App.4th 28 621, 627 (2007).

1       Defendant's defense that the subject policy was rendered void by virtue of the 2 fraudulent misrepresentations and concealment of the Plaintiffs thus falls squarely under 3 its general denial, as such a defense show that Plaintiffs have no right to recover. For 4 example, as the Court will note, the Complaint alleges in ¶ 27 that Plaintiffs "performed 5 all terms and conditions under the insurance policies" and "is entitled to the full benefits 6 and protections of said insurance policies." By virtue of Defendant's general denial as 7 to these and all related allegations, Defendant is entitled to urge any defense showing 8 that Plaintiffs have no right to recover. As such, the defense that Plaintiffs are not in-9 fact entitled to the full benefits and protections of the subject policy, by virtue of their 10 fraudulent misrepresentations and concealment that rendered the subject policy void, is 11 therefore encompassed by the general denial under California law.

12       In addition, unlike federal law, California has no requirement that an affirmative
 13 defense based on fraud be stated with particularity. Rather, Code of Civil Procedure 14 section 430.30 merely requires that there be a "statement of any new matter constituting 15 a defense." As such, to the extent the general denial does not already encompass the 16 voided policy and fraud defenses, the affirmative defenses previously identified – i.e.
 17 the 12th, 19th, 26th, and 27th affirmative defenses for frustration of purpose, intentional 18 conduct, waiver, and unclean hands – each comply with the minimal pleading
 19 requirements under California law and are effective to support Defendant's arguments 20 in opposition to Plaintiffs' motion for summary judgment.

21       Moreover, also unlike federal law that considers affirmative defenses waived if 22 not initially asserted in the answer, California recognizes liberal pleading rules under 23 which the court may grant leave to amend the pleadings at any stage of the action. Code 24 of Civil Procedure section 473. In fact, courts are instructed to liberally exercise their 25 discretion to permit amendments of the pleadings and the policy favoring amendment is 26 so strong that denial of leave to amend can rarely be justified. See Nestle v. Santa
 27 Monica, 6 Cal.3d 920, 939 (1972); see also Morgan v. Superior Court, 172 Cal.App.2d 28 527, 530 (1959). Additionally, even where a defense is defectively pleaded, it may still

1 be allowed so long as the pleading gives sufficient notice to enable plaintiff to prepare 2 to meet the defense. Harris v. City of Santa Monica, 56 Cal.4th 203, 240 (2013). In 3 short, given the minimal pleading requirements for an answer in California and the 4 liberal view on amendment and accommodation of defects – in contrast with federal law 5 – it would be a manifest showing of a failure to consider material facts if the Court were 6 to find the defense of void policy or fraud waived or defective in view of the Answer 7 and the affirmative defenses asserted therein.

8 Finally, California law provides that a plaintiff may demur to an answer on the 9 ground of insufficient pleading or defenses. California Code of Civil Procedure section 10 430.20. However, failure to demur ultimately reflects a waiver of the right to challenge 11 the sufficiency of the answer on the presumption that had the demur been brought, 12 defendant would have been allowed to amend the answer. See e.g. Hata v. Los Angeles
 13 County Harbor/UCLA Med. Ctr., 31 Cal.App.4th 1791, 1805 (1995). Here, where 14 Plaintiffs are long-overdue in their ability to challenge the sufficiency of the state court
 15 answer, they have similarly long waived their ability to do so. In view of this waiver, 16 there can be no challenge as to the sufficiency of the Answer under California law and 17 thus the Answer can in no way to be said to be insufficient to support Defendant's 18 opposition to Plaintiffs' motion for summary judgment on the grounds of the subject 19 policy having been rendered void due to the fraudulent conduct of Plaintiffs.

20 4. DEFENDANT HAS COMPLIED WITH LOCAL RULE 7-3.

21 Local Rule 7-3 states that when a proposed motion must be filed within a 22 specified period of time, then the conference “shall take place at least five (5) days prior 23 to the last day for filing.” As the Court is aware, the ordered cut-off date for motions to 24 be heard was actually November 15, 2016 and the pre-trial conference in this matter is 25 set for December 19, 2016. In addition, with the impending trial and preparation of pre-26 trial documents, there is a specific amount of time remaining for the Motion to be heard, 27 such that the five-day rule was in effect and complied with. In short, time was of the 28 essence with respect to the Motion.

1       Further, as a motion for reconsideration under F.R.C.P. Rule 60(b) need only be 2 made within a “reasonable time” and “no more than a year after entry of the judgment
3 or order,” there is no time restriction that would prevent Defendant from simply re-
4 filing the present motion. However, this would only create needless delay and waste 5 unnecessary judicial resources. Moreover, to the extent the Court determines there was 6 insufficient compliance with Local Rule 7-3, F.R.C.P. 61 provides that unless justice 7 requires otherwise, no error by a party shall preclude disturbing a judgment or order and 8 that the court must “disregard all errors and defects that do not affect any party’s 9 substantial rights.” Here, none of Plaintiffs’ substantial rights have been affected by 10 virtue of any error that may have occurred in that Plaintiffs have had adequate time to 11 offer an opposition to Defendant’s motion for reconsideration and were otherwise not 12 affected by the date of the meet and confer relative to the hearing of the Motion.
13 Moreover, the time constraints created by impending trial dates and given that the 14 Court’s order on Plaintiffs’ summary judgment motions was only issued recently weigh 15 in favor of resolving the Motion at this time instead of at a later date.

16 5. CONCLUSION.

17       For the reasons set forth above, Defendant respectfully requests that the Court
18 reconsider the identified portions of the Order on the grounds that there has been a 19 manifest showing of a failure to consider material facts presented to the Court – i.e. the 20 Answer filed by Defendant – in that the Court failed to consider the significance of the 21 Answer having been filed in state court and the substance of Defendant’s Answer.
